Rationale:

To facilitate the delivery of quality services while respecting the privacy of supported persons.

Policy Statement:

The agency compiles and maintains personal data pertaining to supported people because it would be impossible to deliver quality services without ready access to this kind of information. In doing so, the agency will comply with Ministry regulations and with privacy legislation. Further, personal information will be handled with a level of care and discretion that is consistent with our Vision and Mission Statements.

Senior staff will ensure that comprehensive internal controls are in place and are regularly audited.

MANAGEMENT OF PERSONAL INFORMATION RE SUPPORTED PEOPLE

Procedure No: B-7-1
Overall Organization of Files

Effective Date: October 15, 2008
Last Revision/Review: June 14/19

Personal information, related to people receiving support, will be organized in a consistent manner. This policy speaks to how documents are grouped and organized, where they are kept and for how long. The actual list of documents kept is too lengthy and too frequently edited for inclusion here. This list (Form B-1 Records Management) runs to some 20 pages. It is updated annually (every January) by a director and it is used by Team Leaders and Admin staff who work directly with files in program sites and in the main office and archives.

All such information will be kept in either:

- A Primary File for key information that is kept in the main office and not archived until after death or discharge. Support staff can access Primary Files with the permission of the appropriate Program Manager, but material can only be removed or copied with the approval of a Director. Transmittal to a third party or another agency requires the consent of the person in service or of his/her parent or guardian.
- A Working File that is kept in the program site for a period of three years. That is, there should always be the current year's records and complete records for two previous years. Some working files are of little use when they cease to be current – e.g. Support Plans. Others, like Financial Records and Medication Administration Records, become part of the permanent record and are, in fact, legal documents in the sense that they would have to be produced in the event of an inquest.
- Archived Files. Our archives are at 243 Union Avenue. Every January, one full year of working files, in each program location, are neatly compiled, by the Team Leader and Program Manager, and transferred to archives. After death or discharge, Primary Files are also archived. Archived material is to be kept for seven (7) years after last entry (i.e. after death or discharge), at which time the files will be shredded. The Director provides approval by signing off on form H-39 "Document Destruction Record," which will then be held indefinitely within the Compliance Department.

Organization and Management of Working Files

Effective Date: October 15, 2008
Last Revision/Review: Jun. 15/17

- The Working file is the sum of the current information regarding a person that is compiled and retained either by e-file or paper.

- As stated above, the hard copy component of the Working File is kept in the program site for a period of three years. That is, there should always be the current year's records and complete records for two previous years.
- While in the program site, paper files for different people are kept separate and all files are kept secure – i.e. either in a locked cabinet or in a locked room.
- Most paper files for people in residential programs will be organized into a series of binders. For further detail around the organization of these files and binders, see Agency Wide/Other Forms/Binder Indexes.
- Every January, hard copy files more than three years old are compiled and forwarded to the Admin Office (Reception) for storage in our Archives as detailed in Form B-1 Records Management.
- Every person receiving service will also have a current electronic folder under Agency Wide / People who Live at / Program Location / Person's Name as detailed in Form B-1 Records Management.
- CLDN uses a secure person-centred database (AIMS©) for storing and manipulating the personal data that we collect on supported people to facilitate the provision of high quality supports. AIMS also has the capacity to help measure the quality of the supports we provide.

Documents that were once created by hand and saved as hard copies are now entered on a daily basis into the database. It is expected that the database will enable us to work smarter and more quickly while reducing our reliance on paper documents. It will also improve our ability to safeguard the privacy of supported people.

Organization and Management of Archives

Last Revision/Review: Jan. 15, 2013

- The archives are in a locked storage area at 243 Union Avenue.
- Primary responsibility for maintaining the archives has been assigned to the Administrative Assistant at the main Admin Office.
- All material in the archives pertaining to supported persons is organized by peoples' AIMS file numbers and kept inside metal file cabinets.
- A reference chart is displayed in the Archives room. This chart cross references the names of people to AIMS file numbers and directs one to look in a particular file cabinet.
- Every January, working files that are more than three years old will be sent to the main Admin Office. Team Leaders will be responsible for organizing the material into four labelled file folders or boxes, as follows:
